ALCAN REQUESTS ZONING ADJUSTMENT ON VIA MALLORCA

Of thirteen items set for hearing by the County Board of Zoning Adjustment next Tuesday, six concern property in Carmel Valley. Most likely to arouse debate is an application by Alcan Pacific Corporation, developers of Hacienda Carmel, for a "modification of Variance Permit Condition."

This means, says Alcan's Les Burdett, that "We are merely requesting use of the Via Mallorca roadway and bridge during a period of construction for some of the vehicles which cannot use the San Carlos entrance." The recent construction of a fence and turnaround on San Carlos Rd. by the owners of the ranch makes access by some commercial vehicles "extremely awkward or even impossible," Burdett explained. In addition, a load limit of 7 tons has been placed on the San Carlos bridge by its owners, the Oppenheimer family of San Francisco, Burdett said. Asked how long the period of construction might be, he stated, "I have no idea." One hundred and twenty-five units have now been completed at the retirement home. One hundred and seventy-five additional units are PAMELA GAMBLE of Carmel Valley, the current Miss California, last week told members of the Monterey Rotary Club about her recent travels--to Mexico, Arizona, Nevada, and Minnesota, on behalf of Western Airlines. Shown with Pam at the meeting at Casa Munras are Mrs. Helen Shropshire, director of the Miss Monterey County Pageant, and Al Madden, program chairman for Rotary Club in Monterey. Pam left yesterday for Denver, and will next visit Seattle and Canada.

Johnnie Johansen to be Private Eye

A new job and a new home lie in store for Johnnie and Peggy Johansen with the New Year. The former Sergeant of the Sheriff's substation formerly located in Carmel Valley is seeking a Monterey location in which to open a branch office of the Achatas Investigation and Security Agency, operated by Raymond Waters at 1102 Abbott St. in Salinas. Waters also operates an insurance adjustment agency at the same address.

Today, Jan. 3, was set as moving day for the Johansens, after almost a decade's residence in Carmel Valley. Their home on Merrill Way has been sold to Mrs. Mai Stephens, the mother of "Hud" Stephens of KIDD. Johnnie and Peggy will live in an apartment in Pacific Grove, where they formerly lived and still have many friends and relatives. They indicated that Johnnie's recent and unsuccessful campaign for Sheriff of Monterey County had left them somewhat the worse financially, and that the move was a necessary one.

Johnnie seemed optimistic about the prospects for the branch agency and encouraged that he had found an occupation related to his interests.

HOLIDAY FESTIVITIES WERE TIMES FOR FAREWELLS for Johnnie and Peggy Johansen here shown chatting with Mrs. Kent Mitchell of Monterey at a pre-Christmas cocktail-buffet dinner which Paul Jones gave for old friends at Reuben's. For news about the Johansens' impending move and Johnnie's new occupation, see story above. For George T. C. Smith's picture coverage of Paul's party, see page 5.

NEW DEVELOPMENTS HINTED FOR COMING CV ROAD CONFERENCE

News that Monterey City Councilwoman Minnie Coyle would attend next Thursday's conference regarding Carmel Valley Rd. brought speculation early this week that hoped-for support from other areas of the Monterey Peninsula might be forthcoming in the current move to solve CV's traffic problems without wholesale marring of its scenery.

FIDELITY CLUB

Fidelity Club will hold its monthly potluck supper tonight at 6:00 at the Fellowship Hall of CV Community Chapel. The recently-organized group welcomes all Valley residents over 50 years of age. Further information may be had by contacting the president, Charles Abbott, at OL 9-2858.

Al Fry Back at CV Inn

Al Fry, who suffered a stroke several weeks ago, is "just beginning to perk again," as he put it, and is looking forward tremendously to seeing his friends after his long, quiet convalescence under the care of Mrs. Fry at the couple's home in Pebble Beach.

Starting this week, Al will be at the Inn for a few hours each day, and would very much enjoy it if his friends would drop by for a chat. He expected to attend Kiwanis Club, which was scheduled for today since the New Year holiday interfered with the usual Tuesday date this week. Friends will be glad to know that he has no residual impairment resulting from his illness and feels very much his "old self" once more.

Paul Cooper, chairman of the Committee for Carmel Valley Rd., affirmed that Mrs. Coyle would be present, and stated that some "promising new developments" were indeed in the wind, although announcing further details would be "premature".

The conference, scheduled for 8:00 p.m. next Thursday, Jan. 11, will feature an exchange of ideas with State Director of Planning Elton Andrews, who is journeying here from Sacramento for the occasion. Members of the local Road Committee stressed that the State Planning Division is separate from the State Highway Department, and that Andrews is definitely not connected with the latter--he is interested, in other words, in long-range development rather than immediate traffic flow.

State Senator Fred Farr several weeks ago also accepted an invitation to be present at the meeting. He is scheduled to tell the group about new state legislative proposals regarding scenic highways; presumably these proposals, if passed, would be applicable to Carmel Valley Rd.

Members of the Road Committee, an outgrowth of joint action of the Valley's two major Property Owners Associations, issued a final all-out exhortation that all property owners interested in "solution without devastation"

DESPITE RAINS which necessitated the moving of 4-H Cookie Sale stands to unadvertised but sheltered locations, the youngsters netted approximately $85 on elegantly decorated Christmas goodies which they baked themselves as the result of group cooking lessons during the past year. Proceeds will go to further 4-H projects for the local Carmelo 4-H Club.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

To all Valleyites:

HOW TO SAVE DEAR OLD FOSTER & KLEISER (THE BILLBOARD CO.)
AND

GET OURSELVES A FOOTPATH INTO THE BARGAIN

Wish I knew what to suggest instead of an ugly and unimaginative 4-lane thru-way.

Should the Valley road be divided by a plant strip, separated altogether, or should we have a skyline drive, or maybe a double-decker mounted on Roman arches? Frankly, I've no idea.

But one thing I am sure of: IF THIS HIGHWAY TO COME, NO MATTER WHAT ITS DESIGN, DOESN'T HAVE A PEDESTRIAN-CYCLIST PATH, THEN ITS BUILDERS WILL HAVE FAILED TO PLAN FOR THE FUTURE.

"Footpaths cost millions more to install and maintain--the whole thing is utterly impractical, impossible--it'll never work, etc., etc.!" The apopleptic unanimity of the State Highway engineers is almost certain.

REVENUE

Let's tackle the difficulty of expense. Other connected problems will seem minor, I'll bet, if this first one is solved. How about allowing outdoor advertisers to pay for a footpath? What objection could there be to a modest and rustic sign, about 18 inches high, repeated at half-mile intervals, and announcing the following:

"These three (or one, or five) miles of pathway are cheerfully maintained for public use and pleasure by

The Crustanholy Bread Company."

Now that the court has ruled in favor of Monterey County on the legality of forbidding highway billboards, other counties, encouraged by our success, may follow suit. The billboard companies are faced with ever-increasing loss of business, and maybe even extinction. Here is a way in which they could get several birds with one stone: Stay in business and expand, create an excellent public image for clients, do a far-sighted public service, and set themselves up as patriotic supporters of the President's Council on Physical Fitness.

With all the publicity our area receives, an attractive footpath along the Valley road could well become a celebrated, admired, and imitated prototype of many more to follow--in the county, the state, even in the entire nation.

JUST FOR FUN...

Just close your eyes a moment, Valleyites, and envision the future footpath on a Sunday afternoon in the fall. Everyone, from six to ninety, is out strolling or cycling. Boys are taking girls for an "old-fashioned walk." Here comes that family with seven kids, all on bicycles; looks as if they've been picnicking somewhere... And there go the Rumpelgrubers--awfully eager about this sort of thing, both wearing podometers.

Wasn't that the General passing by? Bet he's carrying one of those imported Scottish walking sticks we read about... And there's the Doctor out taking some of his own medicine. Hmm, any emergencies this afternoon will have to take after him on Shank's mare... Look at all the girls! What a time they're having ogling the track men out for a little road work.

And here comes Miss Laman-grasia, fashionably attired in a coral tweed footpathing costume... Isn't that the famous heavy-weight, Mike Slugguga, with her? Ha! Guess we'll read about that in the society column!

--Well, we certainly see a lot more people, both friends and strangers, than we ever did in the footpath-less days. Fun, isn't it!
--Elizabeth Granoff

Ed. Note: Nowadays it seems that a person cannot present a really sensible suggestion without being half-humorous or semi-apologetic about it. If one puts forth a good idea in a serious manner, one risks being called a "zealot" or "crackpot". Why shouldn't we have a footpath, a cycle path--and a bridle path, which has also been suggested, for that matter? "Impractical" and "impossible", as Mrs. Granoff intimates, are just cover-up labels for "expensive." But what is more expensive in the long run than poor planning, which eventually demands undoing and re-doing?

The Hall-Goodhue concept for Carmel Valley Road would certainly allow room for any sorts of paths we desire, and Mrs. Granoff's notion of how to pay for these is no crazier than a lot of things which are being done every day in the name of "sanity" and "logic." Surely discreet signs along a footpath would generate more goodwill than skywriting or billboards!

For those readers still unfamiliar with the notions of Hall & Goodhue (directors of the Monterey Area Planning Commission) for Carmel Valley Road, we shall present a resume of their suggestions in our next issue.)

Carmel Valley Master Plan Has Long, Honorable History

by Dorothy Reed

A short time ago an irate Valley homeowner stood before the Board of Zoning Adjustment in Salinas, shaking in his hand a copy of the Carmel Valley Master Plan. "We demand that you abide by this plan," he insisted. "We bought our homes in this area knowing that we were protected by it, and we are opposed to any deviation from it!" Though the Board reminded him that the plan is a guide, not a gospel, they obviously took its guidance seriously. Again and again in official hearings, the phrases "minimum acreage" and "appropriate land use" as specified by the master plan come up in arguments for and against petitions.

So taken for granted is this piece of paper which protects the environment of Valley homes that the story of its compilation by a determined group of dedicated people is all but lost. A little inquiring led us to Miss Orre Haseltine, now of Carmel, one of the prime movers in the making of this remarkable document. The Carmel Valley Master Plan is a pilot project accomplished by private citizens; it is the first such plan in California undertaken and paid for by an unincorporated community.

Miss Haseltine smiled, recalling the earliest days of her thirty years' residence in Los Ranchitos. "Life was really rural then," she said, "there were coyotes and skunks about at night, and we saw foxes even in the daytime. A ride across the little mountain road that is now Los Laureles Grade used to stand a newcomer's hair on end. The lower Valley was full of orchards and belonged to people who were sure that they and their descendants would be farmers forever."

CHANGE

As long as fifteen years ago, however, the creeping pressures of growing population could be detected. Businesses and tourist attractions foreign to the Valley's nature were in the planning stage, and promoters were beginning to cast hungry eyes at its vast untenanted acreage. The Valley had no voice of its own and no one to speak for it, no way to prevent its exploitation if short-sighted developers should gain control of the land with no motive beyond momentary financial profit.

CVPOA

Uneasy homeowners began to consult with each other, and one day in 1947, in Miss Haseltine's living room, the Carmel Valley Property Owners Association came into being. "Everyone put in a dollar or two to start a treasury, and we took on the whole Valley for our territory—from the highway to Jamesburg."

At first the new association was absorbed in parrying, one by one, the various thrusts which commercialism threatened to make into the Valley. Their only weapons were petitions and post card polls—"I remember one occasion when I felt like Paul Revere as I rode around alerting the citizens and getting their signatures." Obviously the Valley needed a code which would establish rules for its growth and protect its rural character permanently; at the same time it would release Property Association members somewhat from their role as Minute Men. The mountainous nature of the task can hardly be overestimated.

PLANNER

"My house became a sort of Town Hall," said Miss Haseltine. A professional planner had to be engaged, and several were considered. Funds had to be raised to pay him, and letters were written to every property owner in the Valley, whether a resident or not. Every existing organization was invited to participate.

VALLEY LOCATION SOUGHT FOR SIX FOSTER CHILDREN

Mr. and Mrs. Robert Anderson, who care for six foster-children through a license from the County Welfare Department, are very much in need of larger quarters for their brood--and all eight members of the happy "family" hope earnestly that they can return to their beloved Carmel Valley. Until recently, the Andersons lived for 2 years with their brood at Sky Ranch in the upper reaches of the Valley--and they loved it. "The further out in the country we get, the better," says Mrs. A. Then Sky Ranch was sold and they found new quarters at Wagon Wheel Ranch. The couple applied to the Planning Commission for permission to keep the youngsters there and received it, but the Welfare Dept. decided that the available house was too small.

What they need is a house with four small bedrooms or three large ones. Three boys per room is not considered out-of-line so long as conditions are not too crowded--and the family is well-supplied with sets of bunk beds. UP TO $125

They can pay up to $125 per month.

The boys, who range in age from 12 through 17, enjoy ranch chores and would like to help with the work wherever they locate, Mrs. Anderson said.

REFERENCE

Lyle Winkler, by whom Mr. Anderson was employed until recently, stated that it has been "downright amazing how well-behaved the Anderson's children always are!" He has given them lessons in mineral lore and the group has accompanied the Gem & Mineral Society on field trips.

The Andersons are now quartered temporarily (they hope) at a house in Castroville which the Welfare Dept. says is large enough--but all of them are extremely eager to return to the Valley, to friends they have made at school, etc. Anyone with a house to rent--preferably on a large, remote ranch--can contact the Andersons at Newton 3-2128. And oh yes--Mrs. Anderson is used to cooking for a large crew ("I even bake the bread").

Verna Winkler Convalescing Satisfactorily

Mrs. Lyle Winkler, who was injured in an auto accident on Carmel Valley Rd. last week, was able to be home with her family in time for a New Year's celebration and was looking forward to returning to her work as teller at CV's Bank of America early this week.

Although badly bruised, with a cut knee, Mrs. Winkler had no broken bones and her husband stated that they were both "mighty grateful" that her injuries were not more serious.

The accident occurred while she was driving past the intersection of Rancho Fiesta Rd. toward Carmel. Two pick-up trucks were passing a slow-moving passenger car carrying two women sight-seers, Lyle explained, "and she missed one truck but not the other." The impact spun Verna's car into the passenger car. None of the people in the other cars were Valley residents.

Paul Jones' Party Reunites CV Oldtimers

PHOTO - REPORT

"How many were invited? I've no idea--they just kept coming, and I did so enjoy seeing them all." So said Paul Jones of the party he gave at Reuben's on the Saturday evening preceding Christmas. Paul invited mostly Valley oldtimers, many of whom "hadn't seen each other since the Fiesta," as one of them put it. The host is shown at bottom left, when, with Nicki Brown, he visited the kitchen to compliment Kay (Mrs. Reuben Hampton) on her always-top-notch cookery. (Newcomers are always surprised to learn that behind the stove which turns out such quantities of amazingly excellent fare is this one small gal)....

At lower right: "Yul" Brownell ponders the tempting selections of meats, seafood, salads, etc., which were arranged smorgasbord style for Paul's many guests....

Center, left: It couldn't have been a true oldtimers' get-together without this pair--Jet and Frank Porter.

Center, right: "Dapper Dave" Pickett seems completely smitten by the charms of 5-year old Brenda Bernstein. The lovely daughter of Larry and Sue looks as if she will be as camera-wise as that celebrated beauty, her mother.

CHARLIE GANSEL sold so many tickets for the project that he has been unanimously voted an honorary member of the Auxiliary!

Under the Oaks and Among the Cactus

by mildred hattan

Christmas came to Carmel Valley on wings of music... the music made by the three angelic musicians in the Tularcitos Christmas pageant. Looking for all the world like a Norman Rockwell holiday cover, SUSAN SENER, GIL GRAHAM, and STEVE AVIS added a delightful touch as typical of GENE PER-RINE's direction as the impressionistic heavenly host of angels on the set designed by ROBERT SKILES.

...And wasn't the huge cactus bedecked with Christmas lights by BETH and BILL WALKER on Lupin Lane just about as California-ish as one can get?... And wasn't it pleasant to hear ELLEN WATERS answer the phone with her low pitched, "Merry Christmas, Bergs!"... And did you see the BEN HOL-

GANGS' cute snowman when he donned a plastic raincoat?... And there was that dizzy game of charades at the Garden Club party using a sign reading "Mill Town" (that turned out to be compost!)... brave SUSAN CLEMENT with a broken arm was seen leaving Tularcitos School with DR. VAN HORN just before party time on the final day... And wasn't that a beautifully decorated tree that stood between the Plumbing shop and the new Chevron station saying "Welcome" to the Village proper? When the money originally pledged for a tree by the Chamber of Commerce was withdrawn, some individuals got together and the results brought much pleasure to residents and tourists alike. BILL CONLAN of Conlan's Electric did all of the work. The electricity was furnished by SCARLETT's Carmel Valley Plumbing Shop, while underwriters of the project were JOE RICUPERO of Giuseppe's Work Bench, JAMES SMITH of the Thunderbird, The CLYDE HITCHCOCKS of the Adobe Oaks Motel, and BOB KVENILD of the Hardware Store.

...Santa was very much in evidence and certainly very busy! We have all heard how he landed at the mouth of the Valley in a helicopter, but he drove through the streets of CV in a car, which he parked outside the Chapel in order to visit the Cooperative Nursery School. A popular member of the Tularcitos faculty is said to have assisted him at this time, but goodness knows, Santa had a great many helpers... Santa demonstrated marvelous patience while visiting youngsters in their own homes on behalf of the Winnie the Pooh Chapter of the Children's Home Society. If he gained a fraction as much pleasure from the donations as he gave to the children, his effort was indeed worthwhile! Tom Waters helped Santa in his preparations for this part of his travels. Santa also appeared at the Firemen's Christmas party; those grownups present were particularly smitten by the expression of handsome 2-year old Eric Smeltzer as he sat on Santa's lap. Eric is still too young to realize how much his own daddy had been helping Santa on this occasion...

...Capable of combining the furor of Christmas with the chaos of moving were DR. and MRS. DOUG WOOD, who with their children have made their home at 78 Lower Circle while operating the Veterinary Hospital. The Woods are returning to their former home in Los Altos.

Home from a business trip to Cape Canaveral in time for holiday dinner with the family was PROFESSOR JAMES E. SINCLAIR of Punta Del Monte... Guests of the JOHN G. BROWNS were Mr. and Mrs. Frank Spurlin and son Robert, Jerry Zelk, and the Clyde Shiveleys of Santa Clara... Present at a family gathering at the home of MR. and MRS. RUDOLPH MARZI on Calle De La Aguila were Mr. and Mrs. John Foppiano from San Francisco, Jack Walorinta of Daley City, Mr. and Mrs. Roy Walorinta from Pacifica, Mr. and Mrs. Carl Edler from Oakland, and Mr. and Mrs. Roger Walorinta from San Francisco.

...CMDR. and MRS. WAYNE GUTZMAN of Garzas Road have as their guests Mrs. Gutzman's parents, Mr. and Mrs. James Grotenhouse from Tucson, Arizona... Leon and Joseph, sons of MR. and MRS. CARMELO PANNETTA of Panetta Road, were home for Christmas with their wives, Sylvia and Anna... Four month old GARTH TODD greeted his grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Albert M. Hattan, when they arrived from Klamath Falls, Oregon for an extended visit in the Valley. Sharing Garth's guests are sisters, Heidi and Scarlett; and brothers, Rogue and Shane, children of the Mark Hattans... Visiting the EDWIN RIDDELL family of Garzas Road is Ed's mother from San Francisco... MR. and MRS. HENRY STRELOW of Via Contenta spent the holiday with their nephew and family, the ROBERT VAL-LONS of Cypress Road.

MR. and MRS. EUGENE BAKER and daughters, Kim and Kathy, entertained Ann's mother, Mrs. Mary Rugh, from Los Gatos... MR. and MRS. OWEN DIBBERN of Country Club Drive spent Christmas with friends in Sacramento... Petaluma was the destination of the OSCAR DURHAMS of Upper Circle to celebrate with their son and wife, Mr. and Mrs. Oscar Durham; twin granddaughters, Kimberly and Melody, and three year old Kraig.

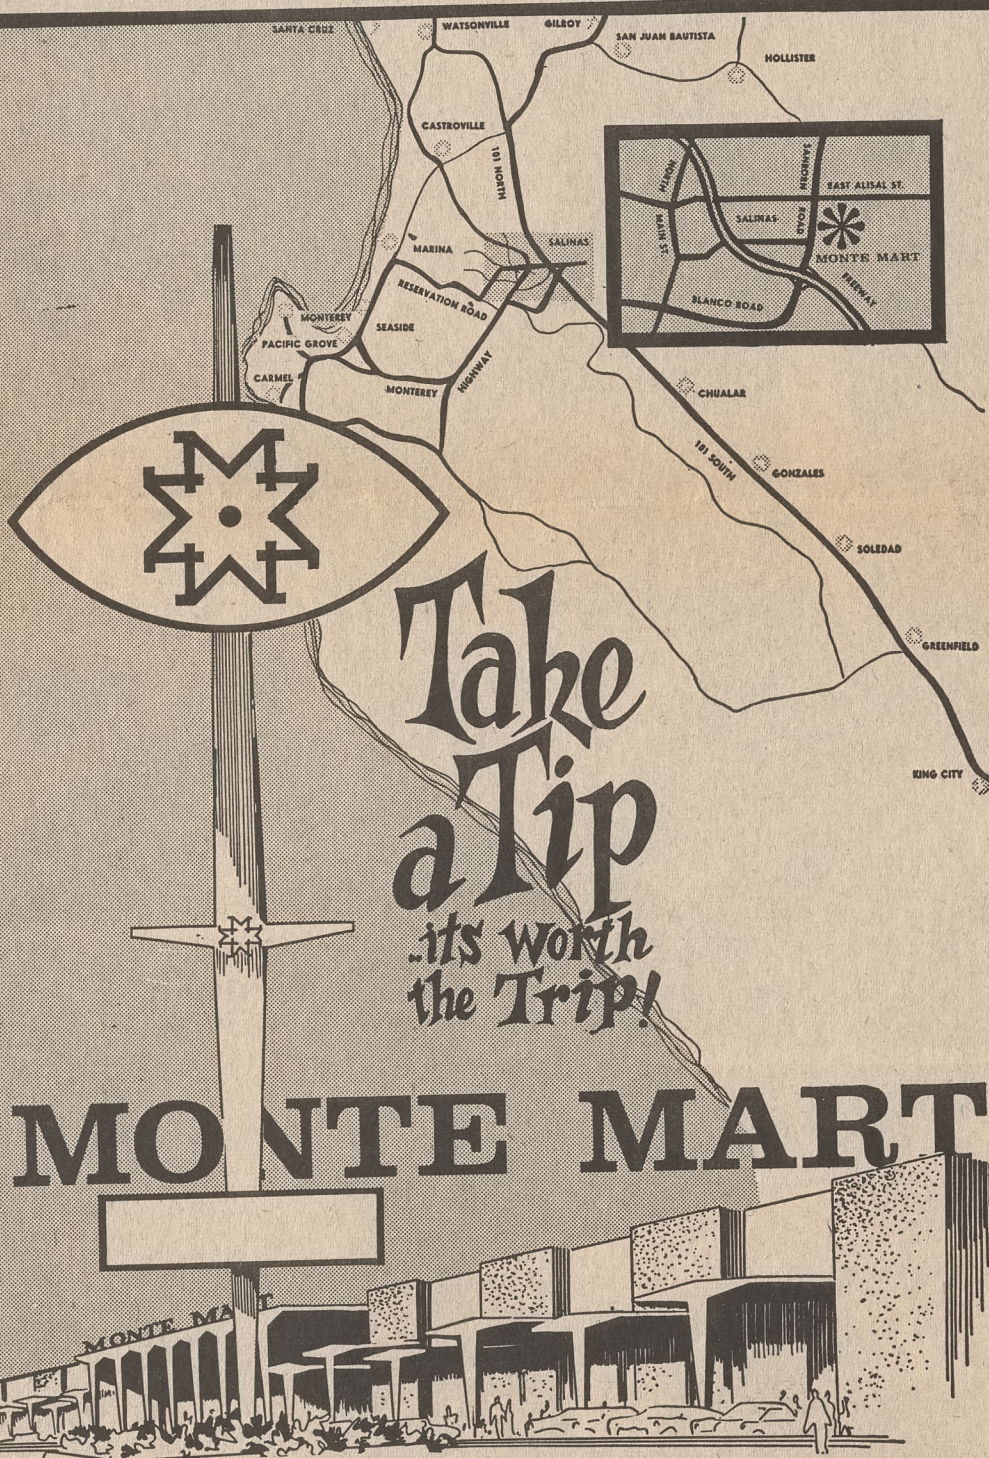

...It was a memorable day for the BLAIR MC DONALDS and their newly adopted daughter, Ann... Closed for its only day of the year was Corona's Market while the SANTOS CORONAS of Via Milpitas spent the day in Los Gatos with Santos' brother and family, the Tony Coronas... THERESA BURDICK, second grade teacher at Tularcitos, flew to New York for the holidays... BETH and CLYDE HITCHCOCK enjoyed an all too brief visit with Mrs. Orval Hitchcock of Estevan, Sask., Canada.

...MARTA FULGHAM flew south for the wedding of her son, Patric, at Downey. A reception followed for Suzanne (nee Badgwell) and Pat in Long Beach. The ceremony took place on the anniversary of the wedding of Marta and Patric's father, who was killed during the war. It was performed by the same minister, Rev. Harold Thelain, who flew down from Fresno. Marta's other son, Michael, served as best man.

...A neighborhood party was planned for the families on Lower Circle by GINNY DREW and JUNE WOOD. Gathering at the Robert Drew home were Mr. and Mrs. Charles Cunningham, Dr. and Mrs. Doug Wood, Mr. and Mrs. Reg Bennett, Mr. and Mrs. Mike Carter, Mr. and Mrs. Fred Boehme, Mr. and Mrs. Richard Lane, Mr. Jim Tombleson, Mr. and Mrs. George Jennings, Mrs. Sean Sutliff, Mr. and Mrs. Doug Meyer, and Mr. and Mrs. John Woods... CAPT. and MRS. PHILIP W. MOTHERSILL on Lupin Lane entertained forty of their friends at a gay egg nog party last week. Guests included faculty from Robert Lewis Stevenson School and from the Military circles.

...Former residents DR. and MRS. H. T. POTTER returned with their daughter and husband, Mr. and Mrs. David Mancour of Sacramento, for a holiday stay at the Adobe Oaks.

...And more next week!

Girl Scouts Have Wonderful Christmas

by Mrs. Alton McKennon

Girl Scouts of Troop #94, Carmel Valley, treated themselves to the best Christmas party ever. Rather than exchange gifts among themselves, the girls made the holidays brighter for patients at the Salinas County Hospital. On Wednesday evening, December 19, they sang carols outside the brightly lighted windows of many wards. In addition, the girls took cookies they made, decorated tray favors, and gaily wrapped small gifts to cheer the elderly patients.

The excited and happy girls were: Kathy Bishop, Jeanne

Cooper, Cindy Foster, Kathy Hoyt, Jackie Jones, Kim Jones, Susan Klas, Cynthia Machado, Cynthia Mauzey, Helen McKennon, Laurie McPhee, Leslie Patton, Sidney Richerts, Connie Scott, Sayward White, and Cindy Young. Mr. Leon Foster, Mrs. Robin Scott and the Troop Leader provided transportation. When the girls returned to their meeting place in the Valley they found that Mrs. Walter Klas, Mrs. Robert Richerts and Mrs. Robert Jones had a surprise waiting for them—hot chocolate and cookies and a chance for more singing before a warm, open fire.

MASTER PLAN HISTORY

Conflicting points of view had to be reconciled, from the rugged individualists who saw no excuse for any zoning whatever, to the dreamers who hoped for a 10-acre minimum lot size. The special "K" zone which now applies to much of the Valley had to be invented to combine farming use with single-family residence. Every scrap of land had to be surveyed and considered to determine its "highest and best use" (all the leg work was done by association members, under the supervision and direction of the planner). "Land use comes first in a community development plan," Miss Haseltine explained, "then schools, recreational facilities, and finally streets and highways."

ZONING

After the planning came the working out of actual zoning "from hilltop to hilltop", requiring endless conferences and hearings. There was an anxious interval when it was doubted whether the one-acre minimum lot size, now a household word throughout the Valley, would stand up if challenged in court. At every step of the way, the Plan Promotion Committee soothed, smoothed, and explained, compromised and reconciled, with the remarkable result that when the plan was presented to County Officials for final approval, not a voice was raised to oppose it.

The County Planning Commission approved it on November 29, 1960, and the Board of Supervisors adopted it January 9, 1961—just two years ago.

Carmel Valley's Master Plan has been called a "pioneer achievement" by Fortune Magazine in that it set up standards for land use before these were actually in effect, instead of codifying a fait accompli, as almost all plans do.

ROAD PROBLEM

The streets and highways section of the plan was never finalized, and constitutes the problem inherited by the current POA as its study groups seek alternatives now to be built.

Several residents of Via Mallorca expressed intention of attending the hearing to present objections. "Our 'cul-de-sac' has become dangerous enough as it is," they said, asking that their names not be used until an official statement of some sort could be formulated through one or both of the property owners associations.

The hearing is set for 10:40 at the Supervisors Chambers in Salinas.

Other Valley items set for hearing are as follows:

10:35 Children's House--Pony in R-4 district.

10:55 David Osgood--Reduction in Side Yard Setback Requirements.

11:30 Larry Cummings--Reduction in Front Yard Setback Requirements.

USE PERMITS

11:00 David Osgood--Private Stable and Guest House.

11:10 Lester Hicks--Multiple Dwelling in "C-1" District.

to a four-lane highway.

"I haven't a square inch of ground in the Valley any longer," Miss Haseltine concluded, "but those who have and who want to keep it as it is will have to be prepared to make some sacrifices. I've had some X-rays recently that show the scars of two old ulcers, and I know exactly when those happened. I don't think I was the only one, either!"

Along the River

BY LAVINIA DAVIS

Houseguests and parties abound Along The River over the holidays. Families have come from far and near to be with their loved ones over Christmas and for New Years.

Visiting TOM and JEAN FITZ-GIBBON and their two children in Rancho Canada are Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Wetzel from Macomb, Ill. The Wetzels, who are retired (Mr. Wetzel is a former College Professor) have been spending the winter in Arizona. They arrived in the Valley the week before Christmas and expect to be here for about two weeks.

Mr. and Mrs. C. W. Henderson, a former Valley family, visited MR. and MRS. EUGENE SCHETTER of Carmel Valley

Rd. The Hendersons are now living in Los Altos, where Mr. Henderson is in the Soft Water business. Mrs. Schetter is well known for the charming candles she makes.

An eleven year old exchange student, Alfred Ortega, from Lima, Peru is a new member of the household of MR. and MRS. JOHN E. ANDERSON of 33 Berkeley Dr. Alfred has been attending a British Boarding School in Lima, so speaks English and will be right at home when he attends Carmelo School starting in January.

DR. and MRS. C. J. ZOBEL of Carmel Valley Rd. had a busy holiday with two members of their family home. Their daughter Patricia and her husband, Joseph Perry, were here from Fresno. Also, their son Robert was home from Fresno where he is attending college.

attend the conference. The time-table calls for local residents to present the Planning Commission with an acceptable alternative to the County Road Department's application for planlines to permit widening of lower Carmel Valley Rd. to a full four lanes with a 4-foot divider strip. The County's present long-range plans call for 4 lanes all the way up the Valley, through Carmel Valley Village, and beyond.

The County has set the hearing on the planlines for lower CV Rd. for January 29.

Notes from Hacienda Carmel

by Marjorie Weber

During the last week before Christmas, festivities tapered off, as many Hacienda residents left to spend the holidays with children and grandchildren. There was, however, another evening of carols on Dec. 22, when the junior choir of All Saints Church sang with charm and verve many favorite carols, ending with "The Twelve Days of Christmas."

On Christmas Eve our popular manager, Loren Johnson, and Mrs. Johnson entertained at a delicious buffet supper all residents and their guests who were spending Christmas at the Hacienda. During the supper, Mrs. Anne Elmore at the organ console, provided charming background music. Later, the guests heard a piano-organ duet, with Bob Peterson at the piano and Mrs. Elmore at the console, which delighted everyone by its surprising beauty. The culmination of the evening was when Mrs. Marlene Paige, soprano, sang a number of Christmas songs, and best of all, when she sang "Oh Holy Night".

Post-Christmas programs started on Saturday evening, when Mr. and Mrs. Charles Yost of Seattle showed an unusually fine set of colored slides taken on their visit to Italy. Mrs. Yost added to the interest by her accompanying narrative. On the next afternoon (Sunday) we were treated to a delightful hour of music by Maria Grazia Farfoli, of Florence, Italy, a gifted concert pianist and composer, whose musical career began at the age of five. Her program was varied, and included both light and classical selections, with several impressive compositions of her own.

AUTOMATION must displace this earnest crew! Youngsters of the Berwick Manor area, who earned pin-money this year by "stuffing" pages of the OUTLOOK inside each other and folding the papers prior to mailing, will now--much to the publishers' regrets--be needed no longer. What had grown (with increase in number of copies AND number of pages) into a harrying job requiring about 30 man-and-boy hours will now be done by machine. Henceforth, for most economically efficient production, the OUTLOOK will be printed on a rotary-offset press in South San Francisco (there is none in Monterey County).

An attempt to console our eager juvenile folding team for the loss of its weekly stint will be made by turning the youngsters loose on the community to sell subscriptions.

The OUTLOOK's most serious regret, however, is the necessity for leaving its present printer. The staff at Lloyd's Printing Service is not only conscientious and cooperative, but has given us the highest quality reproduction. It is just a cold economic fact that the OUTLOOK has now reached a point of quantity that is financially feasible only with a type of press not available in this region.

Our readers have given us every assurance, and in gratifying numbers, that they strongly desire the OUTLOOK to continue under its present ownership and policy. We are determined not to go the way of our numerous predecessors who foundered in their attempts to publish a Valley weekly. That is why we have made this unpleasant but unavoidable choice.

ERWINS' CHRISTMAS

Four generations were together at the HUGH ERWIN home on Lower Private Road. Hugh's mother and sister, Mrs. Eva Erwin and Miss Frances Erwin came from Westlake, Margaret's mother and step-father, the Harve Haywoods were there, their son had recently returned from duty in Europe and Hugh, himself, was able to be home.
